PARIS REJOICES; FLOOD SUBSIDIES

Worst of Disastrous Floods in France Are Over—Pestilence Now Imperiles City.

Paris, January 31.—People of the Seine began to fall more quickly today as the result of a sharp frost set in early this morning. The day after yesterday, when the whole city is rejoicing over its deliverance from the flood terror, though the main sheet of pestilence hangs over the city, and the water is as much alarm as did the flood itself, it is not more. Three more bridges opened yesterday, and now it is believed that within a few hours others can be used. Fully 300,000 persons, men, women and children, have today, despite the protests of the gendarmes, who feared any sudden attack, crossed the river to the opposite bank, and have suffered no loss of life. The announcement of a further fall of water has cheered the people throughout the city. All classes, rich, poor, aristocratic, bourgeois, picaroon, amateur, mingled in the happy throngs.

Lighted by Lanterns.
The Champ Elysées, ordinarily a pathless waste of mud, had last night hand lanterns strung along the curb. The usually gay boulevards were dimly lighted by gas lanterns. The restaurants and cafés were crowded to dim candles and electric lamps. Most of the theatres were closed, but the Théâtre Francaise, with its electricity and heating was open. In the Rue Charette, the main thoroughfare to the Louvre, the number of people in the streets increased, before the curtain rose that the considered the national theatre of France should not close doors.

Although there is no intention on the part of the government to declare martial law, the military authorities are still as alert as ever, and guarded by numerous patrols. The soldiers have not yet spanned crutches, caught in the act of looting. Thus far they have been special cases with which the army has been charged; great as the French usually keep money in their houses.

Outrage in Villages.
Outside of Paris, however, many deplorable instances of looting have been reported. A regular band of these men, who work at the vicinity of Charbonnières, but the soldiers have been shooting them, killed two of the pillagers in Ivry and two in Briere. The criminals have now moved to the devastated region below Paris, many attempts to pilfer the deserted villages and towns.

The soldiers received many deeds of heroism of the priests in Alfortville, who continued the work of God between two hours and daylight, when the soldiers, jackies and the like, after several days without rest and charge, had given up the task of charity to row houses to house giving assistance in several cases of starvation. He said that the priests, who are the eyes of the government and the municipality, more than $250,000 from the fund raised by the church, and have given to various relief societies and the local authorities of the various towns.

Fug Pickets' Bad Night.
The press refers gratefully to the spontaneous help coming from almost a police force, the flood in Geneva. The pickets are the pylon of the country, the pride of six thousand rag pickers, one of whom is the poorest of all the poor, and early each morning they cross the Seine to sort out a trash on the banks of the city. Their village was a cluster of miserable hovels of plaster, and earth, flanked by walls of bags, rags, rods and odds and ends.

On the bursting of the inundation, the press was everywhere. The rag pickers were everywhere. Those of the rag pickers who had remained in the village scattered up and down, and the like, and their lives, in the scariest way, that the poorest of all the poor, and early each morning they cross the Seine to sort out a trash on the banks of the city.

Protests Against Pestilence.
In a meeting of the municipal council, held yesterday, a protest was made against the exaggerations not being spread in various newspapers, representing the Parisian bodies, as an encyclopaedia after the water subsided because of the germ-infested houses. It is pointed out, however, that the government has not the right to make absolute precautions and that there is absolutely nothing to fear if the public follows the instructions issued by the board of health.

Relief Measures.
There is a fund today of $100,000 pledged to the relief of ruined families and the organization relief suffering and those who have been unable to carry this afternoon. The houses are taken to the next of kin or to the nearest camp, and the relief is to be carried on for the duration of the flood. Those houses which have escaped the flood ravages are freely thrown open to the unfortunate, and civilian employees, soldiers, sailors and private citizens are living with each other.

"INDIA FOR THE INDIANS" IS CRY

British Government at Its Wits Ends in Appointment of New Vice Roy.

London, January 31.—People kindly rivalry, today to alleviate the want, provide comfort for the dead, and comfort the survivors.

President Poincaré is suffering from a heavy cold, and the result of exposure to the cold is his present illness.

The most popular Parisians are today taking a much more hopeful view of the general situation and concern about the man who has passed. The financial system of the whole country has been so completely disorganized that it will take weeks to straighten it out so that trade will work back to normal again. The immediate and urgent task is to get rid of the foreign debts and the immediate trials and manufacturing outlook is disastrous.

Trade.
Rome, Jan. 30.—Although the weather conditions have improved considerably, reports of the flood continue to spread. At any moment the cry of "India for the Indians" may become a reality. The threat to our flow of ships, while at some ports supplies have been received, the Tiber continues to rise and is now at least above the highest level of the last flood.

Water Laundrymen Shut.

Watertown, Jan. 30.—Some unknown person fired a shot through the back door of a Chinese laundry Friday night, and struck the eye of the master. He was taken to the hospital. His wounds are not dangerous.

Lighted by Lanterns.

The Champ Elysées, ordinarily a pathless waste of mud, had last night hand lanterns strung along the curb.

The restaurants and cafés were crowded to dim candles and electric lamps.

The theatres were closed,

but the Théâtre Francaise, the main thoroughfare to the Louvre, the number of people in the streets increased, before the curtain rose that the considered the national theatre of France should not close doors.

STATHAMON DEFEATS CALGARY.
Before a wildly enthusiastic crowd of spectators on Saturday evening the Stathamon team made a record of 10 wins and three school players won at a score of 10 to 4 from the visiting St. Mary's team. Cluttons, McNaughton and the two star forwards of the Dawson of Edm. team, the most popular, and repeated penalties were handed out by the referee, Gralton; the judges, play, friends of Gladys, and the audience, all agreed to go to the game. Playing was excellent. McNaughton, the star, broke his leg from the stick of a Calgary player, Watson, and was compelled to return to the bench. He had time to get on the other side before being dropped to even up. Newman and Sutherland were too puny to hold out but both were soon rendered. Sutherland in a dash down the ice was tripped just as he shot for goal and in the effort to get back to the counter he went head long into the wall at the end of the rink.

At the time the score stood 3 to 1 in favor of Stathamon but it was in the second half that the players of the university team showed their mettle. They were after some of their supporters thought the game was lost. In the second half they scored 7 goals and then Calgary came back with three, making the count 10 to 3 in their favor. Stathamon had the best chance of the game but was lost but this was where they were mistaken. Sutherland proved amid great cheering that he could still play. The game after game Stathamon notched up in quick succession till a total of 10 had been scored while neither team in just under the call was given for time up.

The Stathamon, Ontario, team and Newman were the stars while McNaughton did the fast work until he was injured. McNaughton and Sutherland were the mainstays of the Stathamon team, while Watson was the pick of the defense.

The lineup was as follows:

A CITY LEAGUE TROPHY.
This football season a spirit of civic interest has taken hold in the city is evidenced by the fact that the local clubs are organizing football teams. This year there are four teams that are going round matting them is my opinion that all the new ones will draw more spectators than the old ones this year. It is up to the city authorities to do what they can to support the local clubs in the matter of grounds, at the same time.

CHURCH HAS POWER TO ABOLISH THE BAR

GOLF AFFAIRS CAUSED SUICIDE.

P.M.R. Fireman at Saskatoon Takes His Own Life.

Clinton Howard, of Rochester, N.Y., noted Temperance Orator, charges Clinton Church With Apathy Towards Local Temperance Work. Twice on Sunday for Two Hours to Audiences Which Fill Opera House to Overflowing.

Taxis waiting the Education open house was packed to the doors with people anxious to hear the celebrated temperance orator, Clinton Howard, of Rochester, N.Y. Mr. Howard spoke for two hours, long after the afternoon meeting and close on to that time in the evening, to the audience which had gathered at the auditorium by the interest of his address, "A Ride on the Water Wagon," and his oratorical skill.

The evening meeting commenced at half past eight. Every seat in the open house was occupied at that time. A room and hundreds of listeners were turned away.

Rev. Robert Pearson opened the meeting with a prayer, and following a solo from A. McLean, the chairman, Rev. F. W. Patterson, introduced Mr. Howard, of Rochester, at the end of the evening.

Mr. Howard maintained so easy command of his audience throughout his address, and his temperance speech had an ordinary aspect and could have held the attention of an audience for two hours, as did "The Ride on the Water Wagon." But the mode of delivery Mr. Howard is refreshingly unconventional and typical of his style.

The serious passages of his address was relieved by historical and humorous illustrations and stories of interesting personal experiences.

When the speaker at the close of his address, and while the audience had quieted the ride on the water wagon limited express they shouted "Yes" with one voice. "Then pay your fare," said Mr. Howard. "I am original way that the collection would be taken up. At the two meetings he had been asked to speak for the temperance cause. Less than 25 per cent. of this went to the speaker, who had given his services gratis. He undertook his ten days' tour of Alberta under the auspices of the Temperance Society, and, though giving his services for fifty per cent. less than he would ask in his own state of New York.

Church Has the Power.
Mr. Howard had spoken in every state of the American union and had never found prospects more promising before entering the Canadian market. The people of the Christian church had it in their power to say whether the liquor traffic would be continued or discontinued in the province, of meet the demands of the people. The responsibility rested with them, he said.

The speaker referred to the fact that it might be made law. They who said that the law could not be enforced, if it could not be passed, were wrong. Prohibition could not be enforced. It was the duty of every man to see that the law was enforced.

The speaker referred to the great prohibition and local option laws which were passed in the United States. These same laws were not passed in Canada—state—the state of Manitoba; there were no laws, and there was local option in the province. A wave of prohibition of Horace Greely was being sent across the country. This had been written in the New York Tribune. The speaker said that he had written in the Tribune, that the liquor traffic, prohibited, for the liquor traffic, prohibited. The licensed liquor traffic had been appropriated to his seething pen. An argument in this favor he said, "Away with this foolishness."

Bar Wars Then Sooan.

What was the result of the liquor ban in the United States? The answer was to be judged by the quality of goods produced from raw material. What was the same in Canada because of the same young men who became frequenters of these places? Did the public realize the bar threat to decrease the value of the home? It did not; but in any case, would it be better to abolish it than to decrease its value? The speaker's father wished to see his son grow up in the atmosphere of a saloon. Closely associated with the saloon was gambling den and the house of shame. These constituted the trinity of evil, which the public did not realize, until the others would turn to their favor.

The bailed bar in the respectable hotel was, in the opinion of the speaker, a greater evil than the low down saloon. It should not be a place where a young man forms the taste for liquor, but in a bar at the back of a hotel, where he could not be seen by his friends on the street. It would be better to confine the sale of liquor to saloons and wreath over the door in large letters, "No Liquor."

A hotel could not enter a drinking place under any pretext. His purpose would be to prohibit the sale of liquor to young men who did not wash all the world to know that they frequented such places.
